Correlated random paths, random matrices and risk management

Zdislaw Burda

Marian Smoluchowski Institute of Physics, Poland

We present an analytic method of cleaning the spectrum of the covariance matrix based on the random matrix theory. The method has a direct application to the portfolio selection, which is one of the most fundamental problems in quantitative finance.